PAINTER IS STABBED.

A painter by the name of J. M. Cur was stabbed by an unknown man in the right side of his chest yesterday afternoon while standing in front of the Smid Shattuck building on Brewery Gulch. The man walked to a point in front of the Copper Queen general offices, where he fell and struck his head against the iron fence, tearing a gash in his scalp. At the time he was attacked he appeared intoxicated. Curtis was taken to the Copper Queen dispensary where his wounds were dressed and later taken to the hospital. The wound, at first thought superficial, may develop into a severed artery and result in the injured man's death. Late last night C. M. Ramsauer was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Red Gannon, Constable Bert Polley and Policeman Kompton charged with the cutting. From the evidence obtained it seems that Ramsauer acted in self defense according to those who witnessed the affair.
